RE-OPENING

OF THE ST. HUBERT CHAPEL

Spring 2024

The St. Hubert Chapel will once again be fully unveiled for visitors to the Royal Château of Amboise in Spring 2024 after more than two years of works, involving artisans from more than 10 fields. This architectural jewel, built by the kings of France during the Renaissance, which houses Leonardo da Vinci's tomb, has undergone significant restoration:

the sculpted stone features, the decorations, the timber frame, the stained-glass windows, the lead roof have been the focus of these works, which are on a scale not seen for almost 150 years. Almost 3 million euros have been committed to this restoration project, which also aims to serve as an example of best practice in terms of public outreach.

Cleaned free of the residue accumulated over time, sparkling after a perfectly executed clean-up, the building will be at its spectacular best. It already occupies an impressive position high up above the town, clinging to the ramparts. Leonardo will once more be able to welcome visitors to the most beautiful of settings.
